

Editorial Note

The third volume of Vidyasagar University Journal of History is out, finally. We sincerely apologise – especially to our authors – for the inordinate delay.

We are happy to have been able to include essays from young scholars as well as those established in academia. Our intention is to develop the journal as a rendezvous for all serious researchers.

A new feature is our adoption of the blind peer review system. This is intended to ensure complete transparency and make quality the only consideration of the articles published in Vidyasagar University Journal of History.
